

AUSTRALIAN SECURITIES EXCHANGE ANNOUNCEMENT

22 October 2013

The Manager
Companies Announcement Officer
Australian Securities Exchange
Electronic Lodgement

Dear Sir/Madam

ASX RELEASE – NAME CHANGE FOR TWO WHOLLY-OWNED SUBSIDIARIES

The Company wishes to announce that its two wholly-owned subsidiaries, Asian Centre for Liver Diseases & Transplantation Pte Ltd (“ACLDT”) and Asian Centre for Blood & Bone Marrow Transplantation Pte Ltd (“ACBBMT”), have been renamed Asian American Liver Centre Pte Ltd (“AALC”) and Asian American Blood & Marrow Transplant Centre Pte Ltd (“AABMTC”), following approval received from the Accounting and Corporate Regulatory Authority (“ACRA”) in Singapore on 10 and 11 October 2013, respectively.

The name change is in line with the rebranding exercise conducted by the Group since January 2013, following the formalisation of its partnership with US-based UPMC, a US$10-billion global health enterprise headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and is affiliated with the University of Pittsburgh, to set up the Comprehensive Transplant Centre (“CTC”) in Singapore

Currently, the CTC comprises the two areas of specialisation which are the treatment of liver related diseases and blood disorders under AAMG’s wholly-owned subsidiaries, AALC and AABMTC, respectively.

The new “Asian American” brand identity is launched throughout the Group, and it will be carried across the entire spectrum of communication platforms with immediate effect.

For personal use only

The name change will not affect any of the business with our existing clients and staff, and the board believes this move is in the interest of the Company and its shareholders as a whole.

On behalf of the Board

About Asian American Medical Group

Asian American Medical Group ("AAMG") is based on Singapore and has been listed on the Australian Securities Exchange since September 2009. The Group's operations include the Asian American Liver Centre Pte Ltd ("AALC"), formerly known as Asian Centre for Liver Diseases and Transplantation ("ACLDT"), established in 1994 in Singapore, and the Asian Centre for Blood and Bone Marrow Transplantation ("ACBBMT"), now called Asian American Blood & Marrow Transplant Pte Ltd ("AABMTC").

AALC is regarded as one of Asia's foremost liver centres with outpatient facilities as well as a dedicated inpatient Parkway Asian Transplant Unit located at Gleneagles Hospital, Singapore, to complement its highly successful Living Donor Liver Transplantation (LDLT) Programme. AALC is led by renowned hepatobiliary expert and liver transplant surgeon, Dr Tan Kai Chah (Dr K C Tan), who helped start the Liver Transplant Programme at the King's College Hospital London, the UK. Dr Tan performed many pioneering operations in the UK including the first 'split-liver' transplant, first auxiliary liver graft and completed a pilot study of living donor liver transplantation.

AALC is the first private medical centre in South-east Asia to have performed more than 200 living donor liver transplants. On average, AALC treats 8,000 patients a year, of which over 90% are international patients from South-east Asia, South Asia, Indochina, the Middle East and Russia.

AABMTC was established in 2013 as an extension to AAMG's medical capabilities. It is spearheaded by Dr Yvonne Loh, a Haematologist who specialises in haematopoietic cell transplantation and who has performed close to 100 transplants. Dr Loh also has had specific training in transplant for immunological diseases.

In 2012, AAMG entered into a strategic collaboration with UPMC, one of the top 10 medical institutions in the United States. This has enhanced AAMG's clinical capabilities through shared protocols, rigorous quality standards and technology leading to the establishment of the Comprehensive Transplant Centre – a first-of-its-kind one-stop medical hub for treatment of liver, gastrointestinal and haematological diseases and transplantation in Asia.

Other strategic collaborations of AAMG in Asia include a satellite liver centre in Ho Chi Minh City since 2010, and the Vietnamese-American Liver Center located at Vinmec International Hospital JSC, in Hanoi, both joint ventures in Vietnam.
